In responsé to a réquest from the China Association, an interesting memorandum has been written by Sir. WALTER C. HILLIER upon the progress, which has appointments dependent upon a knowledge been made in the School of Practical of Chinese or even in time arranging for people on earth. Nothing but kindness and Chinese which the Association called into the employment of special European interbeing some years ago, under the auspices preters in some houses. has thus been afforded for the study of the purpose for which it is designed. It a foundation upon which a solid superstructure can be built later on, when greater facilities are afforded for the advanced study of Chinese in China itself. He is of opinion that when the advantages of a knowledge of Chinese as a commercial asset become more generally known the value of the school of Chinese will be more widely appreciated and the facilities it offers | be accompanied by a fair knowledge of the will be more extensively made use of. With with approval a passage from "Reshaping be approached as a serious study. To a of the Far East", in which the position great extent it is a matter of perseverance, that is adopted is sound and well con- and sheer plodding; but the study may be sidered, avoiding as it does the greatly facilitated by European professors being done. A pump has been fixed to the well & CO. common exaggeration that a knowledge who know how best to present it to the of the Chinese language will be sufficient European mind, who have experience in to make European's independent of the teaching and who are acquainted with assistance of compradores or other those arts by which the attention of pupils the garden. go-betweens; a point which has been often is fastened upon details unattractive urged by writers who were of considerable in themselves, but which can be made general authority, but who lacked practical interesting by skilled and tactful teachers. acquaintance with the business relations There is no reason why English youth which exist in China. This overstatement should not be able to master so much of has done much to engender adistaste for the Chinese written character with three or the study of Chinese, among commercial four years' study at home, as with a little men, who are well aware, from their own perseverance after they arrive in China experience, that the view is a fallacions will give them a sufficient -knowledge of it que. It is, however, pointed out that it is for any business purposes for which it may essential that Europeans should very soon be required. "Whatever else may be in doubt." Mr. Gunder said, " will be urgently and increasingly necessary- to enable us to hold our ownthat men of the rising generation who look forward to a career in China should acquire a working knowledge of Chinese." One great difficulty, however, which has stood in the way of any general study of the Chinese language by those engaged in moreantile occupations has been the doubt whether they may after all be able to turn their knowledge to any practical account. If a man who intends to make a career in China goes through a course of study as ten taster or silk inspector, he knows that he is not wasting either his time or his money in so doing. He has not long to wait before he obtains a good opening and, if he is a competent man, he maybe has every chance of making use of his attainments as long as it suits him in China, and, as has often happened, of pushing a valuable business either, as broker or attached to some large establishment on his return home. But if a man has by dint of three or lour years' hard study made himself fairly acquainted with Chinese, it is quite an even chance whether in reality William Commissions in March meracable as research that it will be no practical advantage to him on his return. The matter stands upon as I. and R. Consul for Austria-Hungary a totally different footing in regard to appointments in the Consular Service or in the Imperial Chinese Customs. > The March issue of "The East of Asia magazine is the first number of the fifth volume. It opens with a long but interesting article by Archdeacon Moule on "Ningpo under the Taipings: 1861-3." The writer is one of the few surviving eye-witnesses of the doings of the rebels in Ningpe, and as he has a wonderfully clear memory and facile pen we shall look forward with interest to his next instalment. Dr. Franklin Oblinger continues his studies in Chinese Dreamlors, the text being accompanied by quaint Chinese illustrations. "The Trial of the Tiger", -translated by Ardsheal, has also its quota of pictures. "The Lay of Makdea", by C. A. Montalto de Jesus, deals in an interesting mauner with the Emperor Kien Lung s famous work. James Macgowan's "Lights and Shadows of Chinese Life " is divided into two portions; the one dealing with country life, the other describing a ramble through a Chinese city. The contrast between the two is emphasis: ed by the accompanying illustration. Another translation, this time of a Chinese novel, follows, and then, proceeded by a peculiar picture composed of Chinese characters, a study of Chinese picture tracts. Taken altogethe: the contents are as varied as they are interesting, and the printing leaves nothing to be desired.

GRUESOME CEREMONY IN CHINA.

AN ANCIENT CUSTOM.

On May Blat it is said there was a most unusual scene at the village of Chen Ju, situated half-way between Naziang and Shanghai. Magistrates, prefects and a large gathering of officials, together with their retainers, attended a most unique ceremony. The story leading up to the occasion, says the Shanghai Times, is as follows:-Some three years ago a Chinese woman became jealous of her husband, who purchased a concubine, and in consequence strangled him and cut the body into pieces. The husband's relations asked for an inquest by the magistrate of the district. The marderess and her relations, it is alleged, then bribed the megistrate to give a verdict of death from natural causes. This was done and the man was buried in the usual way. For three years past the murdered man's relations kept petitioning for the re-opening of the inquest, and at last obtained the necessary authority from Peking. regard to the re-opening, when the body was exhumed and the remains boiled in samehu, in accordance with the native belief that this would prove whether or not deceased was the violim of foul play. The functions commenced at 3 p.m. and lasted well into the evening. It is said that this ceremony of exhaming a native body for examination has not been performed in China for over 500 years, consequently there was a very large guthering of native speciators besides foreigners, many of the latter with cameras, on the scene.

TREE FELLING.

The following is from the report on the Butanical and Forestry Department published in *werGazette:--

It will be remembered that the questions ! asked by the Hon. Mr. Shewan in Legislative Council on September 14th, 1904, led to a usoful discussion (Legislative Council Paper No. 36 of 1905) upon the best method of managing the Pine plantations on the Island. Eventually the help of the Indian Forestry Department was sought and the Inspector General of Forests advised that the trees should be allowed to grow for 50 years (or in exceptional cases 35) before being felled. This rotation was adopted by change that 35 was to be normal, 30 Victoria, viz., the Tytam and Stanley divisions: the "shelterwood strip system" was to be adopted in the Shaukiwan, Aberdeen and Pokfrom Belcher's Bay to the Happy Valley are, His Excellency the Governor has since d cided, to be preserved for artistic effect only. May 15th MORE LABOUR TROUBLES.

It has been said that strikes are a sign of brisk and prosperous trade; if this be so, trade must indeed be in a flourishing condition, for fresh labour troubles are reported from all parts of Europe. Fortunately the great coal strike in the United States seems to be on the eve of a settlement, whilst the sailors and dock-labourers. here have resumed work yesterday morning, following the example of the members of other trades who had been suspended for making a holiday on May 1. In consequence of the riot on the night of January 17, when the new suffrage law was passed, a meeting of the federated masters was called for the next day at which it was decided that members should be strictly enjoined not to allow their men to take part in any political or trade meeting during in the South, chiefly in Spain, and their working hours and that such of the hands as should absent themselves on the occasion of the A maniscreant whom they had lately dismissed. May Day proces ion shou'd be suspended for a period of not less than three days; as a great prosecutor that amongst the plate kept in the many setually did stay of that day in order strongroom of the castle are many articles, some tained U slead until the straight was entered, to join in the demonstration the term of of silver, some plated and others of various comsuspension was extended ten days, which was | positions, bearing the marks or initials, partly after the expiration of the ten days, but the inscriptions. It must be said to the credit of the men that everything on the whole passed off quietly, although there have been several cases iwhere means other than 'peaceful persuasion" having been employed against men willing to work, the police had to interfere. On one occasion a number of Englishmen who, contrary to orders, had left the ressal on board which they were lodged, for " a bit of a spree", were set upon in the dark and nine of them had afterwards to be taken to the hospital, having been more or less severely wounded. Since the men here have caved in. about three thousand British workmen have returned home by the boats of the different companies that had engaged them; they must Herring endeavoured to increase it with the aid but going up the incline he was pursued by have done pretty well, as they were paid 4/6d Preston and Mamodecen, the former pony a day and everything found.

> LABOUR POLITICS. At the election of the committee of the State insurance against sickness fund last week the labour party made an attempt to get the management into their hands, but were foiled. They seem determined to use their organisation more and more for political purposes, since they have beldly declared at several great meetings held lately that their object is the substitution of collective for individual preduction and that their afferior ouds are identical with these of the socialistic party This challengs to the masters has greatly strengthened the feeling of solidarity of interests existing amongst the latter and has opened their eyes still further to the necessity of acting in concert. Every effort is being made to induces firms that have so far held aloof to join their societies; whilst unions of the less the exceptional term. HONGKONG VOLUNTEER CORPS.

In the annual report of the Hongkong

Volunteer Corps, Major Pritchard says :- On action after a jam. Practice was carried out March 31st, 19.5, the total strength of the Corps was 269 (including Chinese Orderly Room Clark). The total strength of the Corps on March 31st, 1906, is 274 (including Chinese Orderly Room Clerk, I hope that there will be a further increase this year when the New Head Quarters, are completed. During the past season, 2 members have died, 54 have resigned (2 on Medical Certificate, -18 in the Colony and 39 on leaving the Colony). have been struck off for various reasons. It is sutisfactory to note that this is the smallest number that has had to be struck off for many years, and as regards the resignations, a larger proportion than usual have left the Colony. "68 new numbers have been eurolled. The Hongkong Volunteer Reserve Association has at the present date a membership of 234, an increase of 76 during the past twelve months. It, has become a very popular association. The members have carried out a large amount of rifle practice throughout the and a very good average has been obtained The members have the same privilege of obtaining ammunition at reduced cost as the Volunteers, and carry out their practice at the King's Park Range, Kowloom, which is more accessible than the Volunteer Range at Tail Hang. It has also been decided that a range shall be built for their use at the Peak. The Association has revived the interest in the and bullet holes although in many cases the Colony in a wonderful way, and there is every rea on to expect the number of members will continue to increase. It is only fair to mention, however, that a certain number of recruits must necessarily be lost to the Corns annually, owing to the fact that those who are only interested in rifle shooting have greater facilities in the Reserve Association than in the Corps, but the minimum age for members of the Association is 35 years, and if this is strictly adhered to in future i should not their greatly interfere with the numbers joining the Corps. If the members of the Reserve Association had to carry out their rifle practice at the Volunteer Range. think it is probable that their numbers would be reduced to 20 or 30, and considering the inaccessibility of this range, I consider that the Volunteers deserve great credit for the good results obtained in the China United Services Rifle_Association Meeting in which they defeated the members of the Reserve in every event. I think it would be fairer to the Corps if the facilities for rifls practice could be made at least as favourable as those for the Reserve Association. All the members of the Corps have now been equipped with the new short rifle. The Volunteer Troop have been equipped with the Paterson rifle carrying equipment which seems satisfactory. Swords have also recently arrived from England for the Troppers It is satisfactory to note that a far larger number than usual have attended over 30 drills it may be mentioned that, without including the Staff, 12 members have attended over 100 drills, the record number being 117 aredited to Bombardier F. The Troop have carried out frequent mounted drills, and the Engineer Company have had technical instruction at Kowloon with the oil engines and searchlights in addition, to actual working in conjunction with the Royal Engineers with the various engines and a archlights in the command. All units have taken part in field days tegether, and a number of the men have had a short training in entrenching. Musketry was carried out during camp with better results than up with greater keepness than usual and the range at Tai-Hang has been in use regularly on at least two days a week and there have been numerous company competitions besides the Government in charge of the Superintendent and made an exhaustive collection of the flora general practice in the Rifle Club. 31,039 to investigate the botanical resources of the of the remantic gorga in which it was situated rounds S. YARN MARKET CHEERS UP.

CHINESE BANKBUPTCIES.

A local yarn market report says :--"Beginning with the same dolssome tone, the alloted span bids fair to present a cheerful closing scene, a lifeless beginning and a reviving end. As we go to press, our market for yarn is somewhat cheering up, prices have advanced by about a dollar, and booking is observed to be pretty brisk. How far this is going to be maintained, if not furthered, would be a question difficult to answer offhand, so but and so eminous has been our beginning. When misfortunes come, they come in battalions Bombay acted the stepmother to Hongkong and Shanghai and the North and established a dead stagnation almost all over China, the effects of which have been disastrous and far-reaching. There have been local contributory causes as well. Chinese Banks have cuctoiled their accommodations to Chinese merchants; the latter are chokeful of dearly hought purchases; the consumer refuses to come to the aid of the dealer, and financial embarrassment is the only natural sequel to be faced. Last week a heavy Chinese failure in Hongkong simply added to the difficulties of the situation and many compradores and their sureties will have to bear the brunt. The "dead" firm was dealing largely in cotton, yarn, piece-goods, and opium, and the failurs of the firm will bring back into the market a heavy lot of purchases to be resold on account of the compradores and their sureties and that market. If Hongkong and/or Shanghai and are just now moving in times which admit of all sorts of prognostications. As if this were not sufficient, a sister trade of the Indian yarn business is seriously threatened, threatened with extinction. If commerce was ever susceptible to the influences of political and pseudo-political vortexes in one country more than another, it was in China. Missionaries and political philanthropis's (though there may be a number that might almost call them misanthropes) have been persistently dinning into the ears of the British Government of English and India that by the opium "traffic" they were poisoning China and solumnity of the Commoners, has just been quoted Tis. 116 in the north. passed "restricting" the Indian opium trade in Corrow Millian - Shanghai quotations are:

The writer once asked a Christian Science healer in London why Mrs. Eddy did not heal her own husband instead of allowing him to die after five years of married life. The answer COAL wer that he had been hypnotised to death by outside evil influence, against which she (Mrs.

Eddy) had no power! In the House of Commons on May 16" Mr. Lonsdale, Conservative M.P. for haddle Armagh, Treland, demanded that legislative and othe rmessures betaken to prevent Christian Scientists from carrying on their practices, with a view to preventing danger to the lives of credulous people. Mr. Herbert Gladstone replied that the law touching the practice of medicine will probably be further elucidated by the trial for manslaughter of Dr. Adcock, the healer accused of having caused the death of Major John Nicholas Whyte who died under his treatment. Until the trial is concluded, Mr. Gladstone added, he could not express his opinion on the subject.
